

DR. STERNMETZ ELECTRIC CITY WIZARD, TEA

Famous Electrician and Mathematician Dies

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, electrical wizard, died at his home today of a physical breakdown due to a trip to the Pacific coast, from which he recently returned.

The attending physician said breakdown was being suffered by the patient when suddenly his heart seemed to give way and he died immediately.

Remarkable Life
The American career of Charles P. Steinmetz, A. M. Ph. D., chief consulting engineer of the General Electric Works, Schenectady, N. Y., had its beginning in New York in 1859, where, penniless and able to speak only a very little English, he arrived from Zurich, Switzerland. He was accompanied by a young American who had been his fellow student at the Zurich Polytechnicum.

One side of Steinmetz's face was badly swollen as the result of a trifling illness aboard ship and the immigration authorities at Ellis Island refused to admit him to the country. He was sent to the "detention pen" and was only released by the eloquence and persuasion of his American companion.

A few years later he became a naturalized citizen. At the time of his death Dr. Steinmetz was regarded not only as one of the foremost authorities on electrical engineering but as one of the greatest mathematicians in the world. Strangely enough, one of his greatest difficulties as a child was learning the multiplication table.

Born in Germany
Born in the city of Breslau, Germany, on April 9, 1859, and educated at its famous university, young Steinmetz early became interested in scientific studies. He was a student of the famous physicist, Hermann von Helmholtz, and was being taken against it by the government. An issue of a socialist publication in which the students were interested and in which Steinmetz had written several articles, was confiscated, the publication suspended and the editors arrested and imprisoned. Steinmetz fled from Germany and found refuge in the United States, near the Austrian border. From there he went to Zurich.

Two weeks after landing in America, Steinmetz obtained employment in the manufacturing establishment of the General Electric Works at Schenectady, N. Y., as a draftsman. At that time the company was making a few electric motors and generators and had no idea of the problems of the electric street car, jointly with Stephen D. Field. All the designs for the experiments with the electric cars passed through Steinmetz's hands. For a laboratory were obtained and he began to specialize on magnetic testing. His writings on electrical subjects began to attract attention, his discussion of the "hysteresis" effect eliciting much interest on the part of electrical engineers.

In 1892, the General Electric Company bought the electrical manufacturing business of the Eckmeyer Company except the making of motors for elevators, which the General Electric Company retained. The Eckmeyer works of the Schenectady works, and has since that time been a part of the General Electric Company. He was appointed president of the Board of Education of Schenectady, and in 1915, was elected president of the Common Council of the city.

Dr. Steinmetz served for many terms as the president of national and international societies connected with the electrical engineering profession. He was honored with the degree of Master of Arts and Union College made him a Doctor of Philosophy. Since 1913, he has served Union College as professor of electrical engineering and electrophysics.

Wrote Many Books
Books written by him include the following: "Current and Alternating Current Phenomena" (1897); "Theoretical Elements of Electrical Engineering" (1901); "Theory and Calculation of Transient Electric Phenomena" (1902); "The Theory of Alternating Currents" (1903); "General Lectures on Electrical Engineering" (1908); "Radiation, Light and Illumination" (1909); "Engineering Mathematics" (1911); "Electric Discharges, Waves and Impulses" (1913); "America and the New Epoch" (1915); "Theory and Calculation of Electric Circuits" (1917); "Theory and Calculation of Electric Phenomena" (1918). He also wrote numerous papers on mathematical and electrical engineering subjects.

Dr. Steinmetz's special field in which he was most expert, included magnetism, symbolic method of alternating current calculations and transient phenomena.

Manufactured Lightning
A recent feat which attracted attention to the work of the electrical wizard was the production of an artificial indoor thunder storm including a bolt of lightning.

The storm which Dr. Steinmetz both produced and controlled had all the characteristics of its natural brother except the clouds.

Million Horsepower
At a demonstration of the Steinmetz "lightning generator" in the laboratory of the General Electric Company in March, 1922, the familiar storm which Dr. Steinmetz produced and controlled had all the characteristics of its natural brother except the clouds.

"In our lightning generator," Dr. Steinmetz explained, "we get a discharge of 10,000 amperes at over 100,000 volts, lasting for one hundred thousandths of a second. This gives us the explosive, tearing and shattering effect of real lightning, so that a piece of small tree exposed to the discharge is torn to pieces. A piece of wire struck by the flash vanished in dust."

MAKE BORDER TO BORDER IN 12-HOUR TRIP

Fliers Refuel Twice Enroute Without Landing Plane.

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 26.—(By The Associated Press)—Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant J. P. Richter, army aviators stationed at Rockwell Field here, demonstrated yesterday the feasibility of refueling planes in mid air on cross country flights—they flew from the Canadian to the Mexican border, 1,280 miles, in 12 hours and 13 minutes, refueling three times enroute—and today they were planning a trans-continental non-stop refueling flight to be attempted within the next few days.

Was Innovation
While yesterday's flight broke no world's records for speed or distance or duration, it was the first time in the history of aviation that such a continuous cross country trip was accomplished by taking on gasoline. Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter were met by one refueling plane as they soared over Eugene, Oregon. Seventy-five gallons of gasoline were transferred in two contacts within a few minutes. The border to the border fliers received 75 gallons more as they passed over Sacramento, California. Then replenished their plane maintained its flight into Mexico and back to Rockwell Field, where they landed.

Start was made from Sumas, Washington, at 6:27 a. m. The plane circled over the customs house at Tijuana, Lower California, at 6:42 a. m., and about eight miles later the aviators were back home at Rockwell Field. They had maintained from Canada to Mexico an average speed of a little more than 100 miles an hour.

Emerging from the cockpit dapper and untroubled by their exertions, the two army officers began discussing a cross country refueling flight. They had been talking about it at Cape May, Washington, for Portland, Maine, probably the widest span of the continent.

KANE COUNTY WILL IMPRISON STEVENS WHEN RETURNED

Their Claim Comes Ahead of Chicago Murder Charge.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Oct. 24.—State's Attorney Charles Abbott of Kane County said today that the gunmen extraordinary Walter Stevens was captured by Chicago police in a hotel at Cedar Lake, Ind., in a round-up of suspected beer running chiefs, will be taken by Kane county authorities direct to the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet to serve the one to four years term which a Kane county jury decided he should for shooting Lester Wedemeyer, an Aurora patrolman. Extradition papers prepared by Mr. Abbott were taken to Springfield last night by Assistant State's Attorney J. Bruce Amell to get the signature of Governor Small. With the assistant state's attorney were Sheriff Herman Vierke of Kane county, and Chief of Detectives Adolph W. Kitzner of the police department. The assistant state's attorney will go to Indianapolis to have Governor McGraw sign the extradition papers after Governor Small has acted. The police officers will go to Crown Point for Stevens, who is now in jail there. They will be met at Crown Point by State's Attorney Abbott.

Stevens Asked Delay
"I was told," Mr. Abbott said, "that Stevens had offered to waive extradition but Stevens refused to sign a waiver after I had told the sheriff to have him affix his signature to such a document. The sheriff told Stevens that he was not to sign a waiver in a couple of days, but not at this time because he had some business affairs he wished to look after first."

"We are not going to wait upon his convenience. He jumped a $10,000 bond he gave to Kane county. He tried in every way to defeat the verdict of the Kane county jury carrying the matter to the United States Supreme Court."

"If he is wanted for murder in Chicago he can be brought from state's prison for his trial."

The Elgin College eleven is not expected to furnish real opposition. It is said that the Elgin team is a number of second string men will be used. Ends are a scarce article at the present writing, with Hill and Grove both out because of minor injuries. Tyler and Gnagey will start at the wing positions. The backfield is composed of Fagles, Hedgecock, Wisconsin, and Captain Sharer will lead the attack. ## PROGRESSIVES GIVE IDEAS ON LEGISLATION

Washington, Oct. 26.—(By The Associated Press)—Constructive legislation, particularly with reference to the railroads and taxation, is the one aim of the organized group of progressive republicans of the house, Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, its chairman, said today in outlining the general policy of the organization.

Mr. Nelson said that the organization is to obtain legislation without an open fight with the republican delegation. Mr. Nelson asserted, but he emphasized that the group will not hesitate to fight if that becomes necessary.

Especially selected members of the group are studying the several important questions of legislation and until they are ready with their recommendations the forms of bills to be introduced affecting these questions will not be determined. Mr. Nelson, who has been given close attention to the railroad problem, states however, that in his opinion there should be four major changes in the transportation act as follows:

Changes They Demand

Elimination of the so-called guarantee provision.
Valuation of the properties of the carriers on the basis of cash value, rather than the book value.
Abolition of the Railroad Labor Board.

Restoration to the state commissions of their control over lines within their states.

With respect to taxation, Chairman Nelson favors a modified form of excess profits tax and a constitutional amendment against the issuing of tax exempt securities, such as that proposed by Representative Green of Iowa who is in line for the chairmanship of the ways and means committee.

Mr. Nelson said that he has little hope now of a general reduction of taxes, including those on small incomes, explaining that huge sums must be raised to operate the government.

Could Block Organization
The progressives appreciate, according to Mr. Nelson, the hope of obtaining the legislation they desire cannot be realized unless there is what he terms a "liberalizing" of the house committees and it is to that end that the group is prepared to wield the balance of power it will gain if it can hold up organization of the house by the majority, but the group chairman does not believe this course will be necessary.

Personal fights are not to be indulged in by the group, Mr. Nelson said. He said that the group will take sides as such in the leadership fight now on between Representative Longworth of Ohio, and Representative Graham of Illinois. The progressives will go into the party conference which will precede the organization of the house, and will support Mr. Longworth and some Mr. Graham, while others will vote for a 3rd candidate.

"Too Much Massachusetts"
Nor are the progressives particularly interested, Mr. Nelson said, in the suggestion of a "too much Massachusetts" in the federal government, this talk centering around the fact that the presidency, the war portfolio, the speakership of the house and the chairmanships of several of the important committees of congress are held by Massachusetts men.

Chairman Nelson said this is a situation that has arisen in a natural course and that it will be changed in the same way. He added, however, that a change in the chairmanship of the house should be made by the progressive as desirable. It is this committee which handles transportation legislation.

While no serious opposition to the re-election of Representative Gillett, of Massachusetts as speaker, has developed on the republican side, there has been talk at the capitol of possible states to oppose that formed by Gillett and Longworth. There also has been some gossip that Mr. Gillett may be renounced as a candidate by appointment by President Coolidge to an ambassadorship, perhaps that at London which soon is to be vacated by George Harvey.

Mention Illinois Men

Possible states which have been suggested for the capitol discussion are Burton of Ohio for speaker and Graham of Illinois for floor leader and also Madden of Illinois to speaker and Tilson of Connecticut as floor leader.

REPORT WHISKEY FROM CANADA TO DIXON BY PLANE

Say Airplane Rum Runners Unloaded Cargo Near City.

The sheriff's office is investigating a report which has been turned in of transporting liquor to Lee county by way of the air route from Canada for local consumption. It was reported that an airplane landed near Nachusa, unloading several cases of Scotch and Canadian liquor, which was transferred to automobiles and brought to Dixon.

After disposing of its cargo, the plane took off and took an easterly course toward Chicago, it is reported. The report is but one, however, of several that come to the attention of the sheriff almost daily, but a sufficient number of rumors have been received to necessitate the investigation.

GOVERNOR WALTON PREPARING FINAL DEFENSIVE BLOW

Counter Offensive May Ask Impeachment of Others.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 26.—(By The Associated Press)—Governor Walton today added two articles to his impeachment bill against Gov. J. C. Walton, charging him with abuse of pardon and parole authority and with having illegally ordered the certificates when deficiencies in funds did not exist. The votes on the two charges were 72 to 11 and 79 to 9.

Passing swiftly to the charge that the Governor had illegally appointed "a large number of incompetent persons" as state police, the house approved it 73 to 12.

A second article charging illegal issuance of a deficiency certificate was accepted 81 to 6. This was the last measure yet given any of the charges voted on.

Thence charge that Governor Walton abridged the freedom of the press by placing military censors in the offices of the public service and the Henryetta Free Press was approved, 82 to 7. The house by a vote of 77 to 12 approved the charge that the Governor had violated his official oath by expending the funds of the public service for his primary campaign.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 26.—(By The Associated Press)—Governor Walton today is believed to be preparing a final stroke to combat the impeachment proceedings against him.

The executive declared he would "continue to fight" although declining to define his future intentions. It was informed quarters, however, it was said his supporters planned to make an offensive either today or tomorrow by presenting impeachment resolutions in the lower house of the state legislature against Acting Governor J. C. Walton.

The suggestion was received in executive circles in silence. Close followers of the situation, however, the house members that all state departments would be included in its impeachment investigation, and were inclined to the belief that the governor and his supporters would not be responsible for possible proceedings against other officials. It is known that several of the officials named in the report yet are to be voted upon, but it is believed the house will complete the work late today.

Court Order Beats Him

Governor Walton lost his fight to retain in a truck moving in yesterday when the state Supreme Court issued a permanent writ of prohibition sustaining the senate resolution ordering his suspension from office until he could be tried on impeachment charges. The writ restrained the Governor, as a private individual, from interfering with the duties of Lieutenant Governor Trapp as acting governor.

Already organized as a court of impeachment, the senate waited today for the lower house to complete consideration of the remaining impeachment charges drafted in its committee report before setting a trial date. Eight of the 22 articles set out in the report yet are to be voted upon, but it is believed the house will complete the work late today.

GOVERNOR SMALL URGES INTERSTATE FOOD COMMISSION

Says Farmer Works for Nothing and Boards Himself.

Columbia, Ill., Oct. 26.—Governor Small urged the creation of an "interstate food producers commission, with power to fix and regulate the price and distribution of food products" in a speech today before the 27th annual Farmers' Institute of Monroe County.

This proposition, commission designed on a plan similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission, would do much to secure for the farmer a fair and equitable return on his investment and living wages for his labor and at the same time protect the consumer from being robbed by food gamblers and speculators, the Governor said.

Works Free and Boards Self

"The time is fast approaching," Governor Small declared, "when the farmer will stop working for nothing and building himself for the sake of the providing food for the rest of the world."

Touching on the subject of road building, the chief executive quoted in showing that more than 2,000 miles of pavement have been constructed under his administration. He claimed that due to his activity, the state had forced down the cost of various farm operations and power requirements.

Urges Road Support.

Governor Small urged support for the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue for building highways, saying that in that measure lay the only assurance that Illinois ever will have an adequate system of paved roads.

He said that opponents already are scheming to divert motor license fees from the building of hard roads. Such a system, the Governor pointed out, would seriously affect road building in the smaller counties whose motor license fees are small.

Electric Merger Gives Company a Wide Territory

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—Seventeen hundred miles of transmission line, serving about 41,000 square miles of territory in Illinois, is now included in the properties of the Central Illinois Public Service Company. As the result of the consolidation whereby the company has taken over eight concerns in Central and Southern Illinois. The consolidation, according to officials of the Public Service Co., makes possible the generation and purchase for distribution to customers about 175,000,000 KWH in 1923 as compared with the 128,000,000 KWH generated in 1922.

Electric service under the new merger will be furnished directly to 97,350 customers in 211 communities. The total number of customers of all utilities in the state, including the electric, is 117,974. Electric service is also rendered to 107 coal mines in central and southern Illinois, making a total of 48,000 customers of coal mining "load" which, the officials said, amounts to 32 per cent of the total amount of business of this character adjacent to the company's transmission lines.

The new "C. I. P. S." company, as the result of the merger, now includes the following concerns: Middle West Power Co., Canton, Gas and Electric Co., Le Roy, Electric Co., Central Illinois Power Co., Mattoon, Central Water Co., Striffler Ice and Cold Storage Company.

Wonderful Rehabilitation

Dr. Fred Albee, commissioner of rehabilitation for New Jersey and president of the American College of Rehabilitation of New York, told of the art of making a piece of the tibia, or shin bone, into a finger for one man, a thumb for another and a chin for a third.

The shin bone from which silversmiths have been taken will grow back to its normal size, Dr. Albee said, and the silver which is grafted into another bone will grow to the size demanded in the discharge of the duties of that particular bone.

A stationary finger has been made for a veteran who had lost four fingers from his right hand, Dr. Albee said. Nerves have grown into the finger and the veteran has been enabled to go back to his work as a carpenter. An entire finger has been grafted on the hand of a veteran who lost his fingers and thumb, the surgeon said.

A third case he described as one in which a chin was made for a boy, out of bones taken from his leg.

"Salvaging of limbs by means of bone surgery and grafting is one of the big tasks of the day, according to Dr. Albee.

His playmates shouted, but too late. They were returning home from St. Valentine's school when the accident happened. The driver of the machine was told apparently by the boy, who held over the body tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. He was released on his own recognizance, when police expressed belief that he was not responsible for the death of the boy.

Alloy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Urbanski, 421 Sixth street, Peru. They were grief stricken when informed of the death of their oldest son. They are the parents of three younger children.

The scene of the accident is less than a block from the Urbanski home. The mother of the boy who died, who returned from school for the midday meal.

LaSalle Sheriff Quizzes Suspects on Ohio Robbery

Ottawa, Ill., Oct. 25.—Sheriff Walter today was investigating the stories told by two men arrested here this morning in Ashland early Sunday morning. Dr. Albee said that the machine had been found here through Associated Press dispatches which he had read in Rockford papers.

The sheriff has one more unclaimed car in his possession at the jail. A Saxon roadster, which was abandoned on the Rock Island road west of the Cook school house some time Tuesday evening, without license plates, was towed to the jail and is being held awaiting the owner.

FARM LIFE TO BE IMPROVED BY ELECTRICITY

See Drudgery and Long Hours Done Away With.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(By The Associated Press)—Electricity, some day, will transform the farm from a place of drudgery to an efficient satisfied business unit with attractions equal to those of cities if the vision of a committee on agricultural electrification working here proves of practical effect.

Already the farmers of one community, Red Wing, Minnesota, have been attracted by the idea of making electric power work for them, the American Farm Bureau Federation, cooperating in the electrification project, announced today. Other test communities are to be established throughout the country in an effort to apply electrical methods to farming.

See Cheaper Power
It is the vision of the committee, composed of representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, the Farm Bureau, the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, and the National Electric Light Association, so to standardize the use of electrical power on farms that costs of production will be lowered, farm work made more agreeable, and the home life of agricultural workers made as attractive as it is for city residents.

The United States Department of Agriculture is said to be undertaking a national farm power survey to determine the amount of power used in agriculture, the power requirements for various farm operations and power requirements.

A general plan of organization and of development of farm electrification projects is to be submitted by the investigation committee within a short time.

Thus, in substance, has Secretary Hughes replied to the latest overture from abroad for American interest to untangle the international snarl over the collection of war indemnities from Germany.

The officials are content not to operate on the secretary's promise, or to predict what effect it will have on the British effort to attain a settlement of the war debts. A wide effort to solve the ills of European continent.

Expect Important Results

There were indications today, however, that with the subject of important developments might be, but what would be their direction one cared to predict.

Eyes Turn to France
With the subject of the conference, attention now turns to France, where hereafter have made a participation in the subject of a consultation impossible. What, sure of confidence in French coalition may have actuated Lord Curzon to dispatch his message of inquiry to the British government, officials seem inclined to await official expression from Paris before they venture an opinion as to whether the British foreign secretary's attitude was successful or failed.

If France adheres to the position she has held, it is admitted here, a contributing factor to such a decision may be the assistance of Hughes, the international question is separate and distinct that of reparations. From the other there has been no indication that the British government has any intention of cancelling debts owed, a result of the war, by France or other nation.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Fingerprints.
To remove the fingerprints that accumulate on the doorway, use a clean

sloth dipped in kerosene, then wipe with a cloth wrung out of hot water.

Glossy Fern.

Wet the earth around ferns every three or four weeks with water to which a little ammonia has been added. This will keep them glossy and green. A teaspoonful to a quart is enough.

Flowers Revived.

An aspirin tablet added to the water in which cut flowers are kept will revive them if they have begun to wilt.

Drying Stockings.

When hanging clothes to dry, hang stockings by the toes and they will not get out of shape.

Kid Kept Soft.

To keep kid gloves soft, put them into a tin box with a lump of ammonia wrapped tightly in a flannel.

Stains on Silver.

A dry cork will remove stains from plate or silverware without scratching the metal.

Indelible Ink.

When indelible ink stains resist even

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

ONIONS

Are you versed in the gentle art of cooking onions? Or do you regard them as the last vegetable to be considered when planning a meal?

Onions properly cooked are a truly delicious vegetable worthy of a place at the most perfectly appointed table.

They are the proper accompaniment to poultry and game, but can be served with beef, steak or roast, mutton, lamb or fish.

It's rather idle resting to know that this homely onion so obnoxious to many persons was actually worshipped by the ancient Egyptians. Its layer on layer of rings were regarded as the symbol of eternity.

Our great-grandmothers had great faith in the healing properties of onions for colds. Onion sirup and onion plasters were considered efficacious remedies.

Today we find in onions a cheap and wholesome food, stimulating appetites if used as a savory herb and supplying valuable mineral salts if used as vegetable.

If you have never tried French fried onions you do not know what a treat you have missed in the onion form.

FRENCH FRIED ONIONS

Large onions are preferable for this dish. Peel onions under water. Cut in thin slices about three-eighths inch thick. Separate rings and wash in milk. Let stand half an hour.

Drain from milk and drop into flour seasoned with salt. Coat well with flour and drop into deep hot fat. Fry a golden brown and drain on heavy brown paper.

Onion cream soup is delicious on a cold autumn evening.

ONION SOUP

One and one-half cups thinly sliced onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 4 tablespoons finely chopped carrot, 2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves, 1-3 cup butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 cups water, 3 cups rich milk, 1 egg yolk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, paprika.

Melt butter, add vegetables and cook, stirring to prevent them from changing color, for 15 minutes. Add water and simmer half an hour. Rub through a fine strainer. Return to stew pan with milk. Add flour rubbed smooth, with one tablespoon butter and bring to the boiling point. Stir in yolk of egg slightly beaten with one tablespoon cream, season with salt and pepper and cook, stirring vigorously for two minutes.

And the simplest way to cook onions is best of all. Perhaps the old Egyptians cooked theirs this way on heated stones.

BAKED ONIONS

Rub onions clean with a dry soft cloth. Do not peel or cut in any way. Put in a shallow pan kept for the purpose and bake an hour in a moderate oven. Serve in the husks with plenty of butter, salt and pepper.

Or the husks are removed in the kitchen, the onions placed in a serving dish and seasoned before sending to the table.

SCALLOPED ONIONS

Two cups fresh small onions, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 cups canned tomatoes and juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Peel onions and slice about one-half inch thick. Fry in butter until straw color. Season with salt, sugar and pepper and add tomatoes. Turn into a well buttered baking dish, cover and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove cover, sprinkle with grated cheese and return to a hot oven to brown and melt the cheese.

Two tablespoons grated cheese is sometimes added to onion soup. Stir in just before the egg yolk is added.

STUFFED ONIONS

Peel onions. Cook in boiling, slightly salted water for 30 minutes. Drain and remove center sections. Turn shells upside down to cool and dry. Chop centers and mix with an equal amount of cooked rice or soft bread crumbs. Add two tablespoons grated cheese to one-half cup onion and rice mixture. Moisten with milk. Season with salt and pepper and fill onion shells with mixture. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until onions are soft. This makes a very attractive dish if baked and served in shallow glass baking dish or deep glass pie dish. The onions can be baked and served individually in ramekins. Subsequently, selling here against wheat in Winnipeg and Washington had a depressing influence on Chicago prices. The close was unchanged to 1/4¢ net lower with Dec. 1/4¢ and May 1/2¢. ## Progress at Grace Evangelical Church Revival Meetings

Young peoples night proved more successful than was anticipated. The 28 young people who were seated in the choir took part in the singing of songs, scriptures reading from memory and cheers. In one song the young people expressed their determination to say goodbye to movie, cards and dance as follows:
Goodbye dance, goodbye dance
Goodbye dance were going to leave you now.
Chorus

The quartette pleased the large audience greatly with their selections. Last night's attendance was the largest thus far.
Rev. Petro preached on the subject "Adam and Eve and the Baby." He used two stories from the Bible. The first was Adam and Eve in the Garden and the babe in the manger at Bethlehem. In the beginning God created man and placed him in the garden. It was as pure and good planned that man should have everything ideal but the fall of man changed God's plan. Someday He will come again to re-establish himself on earth and make for us another Eden. When Adam was an angel in Heaven he envied God's power and tried to overthrow the Kingdom of Heaven and was cast out. At this time he took the form of a serpent and came to earth to tempt Adam and Eve. They disobeyed God and fell and sin entered into the world.
Next look into the New Testament to where the babe is lying in the manger. Great crowds of wise men and shepherds gathered round the manger and there was great excitement. This babe was to some day bear the burden of all the sins of the world. His hands and feet were to be pierced with nails and he was to die upon the cross. This babe must suffer untold agonies for the sins of Adam and Eve.
When he became a young man he ministered unto the people everywhere but they were not grateful and there proved to be much opposition. Plate in this man "I can find no fault in the crowd." They tried to crucify him. "So they removed his white robe which signifies purity and replace it with a purple robe, the color which stands for martyrdom. This was not enough so they whipped and mocked him besides forcing him to carry his own cross. He was so weak that he stumbled. A crown of thorns was even placed on his head, piercing it while someone spit in his face. While on the cross Jesus was told to come down if he was the son of God. This was Christ's greatest temptation because He could have saved himself but must die in order to save humanity. There on Calvary the babe in the manger died of a broken heart. ## HOOTCH SELLER IS HELD FOR MURDER ON PANA CHARGES

Soft Drink Proprietor Faces Serious Charge After Deaths.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Pana, Ill., Oct. 26.—John Tokoly, proprietor of a soft drink parlor who last Saturday was indicted on five charges of manslaughter in connection with five deaths, here recently from poisonous whiskey today was indicted on five charges of murder. The bonds on the manslaughter indictments were fixed at a total of $37,500, but were not furnished. On the murder charges Tokoly is held without bond. Stephen and Paul, sons of John Tokoly, each was indicted previously on five counts for manslaughter and now there are twenty indictments against the three men on charges connected with the deaths of Edward Gaughan, Charles Gaughan, Edward Bish, Dwight Eiler and George Baldwin.
Last night there were five additional, following a beautiful and tender sermon on the text of hope: "Weeping may tarry for the night, but joy cometh with the morning." (Ps. 30:5). The gist of the message was: All will be well for those who obey and serve God. It was a blessed encouragement for those of heavy hearts, who, as the evangelist put it, may be wishing and praying: "Oh, for a field boundless and a mind untrammelled, oh, for a higher, nobler, and purer life!" Plans for a concert at the close of the revival have had to be canceled since Mr. Seniff goes out on Monday evening, Ill., and the pastor there in special evangelistic meetings. However, both he and Dr. Peters will be here on Monday evening for the reception given by the church to the new converts.
Baptismal service will precede the sermon this evening. Next Sunday afternoon a great mass meeting will be held in the church, with attendants from nearby Christian churches of Bureau, Ogle, and Whiteside Counties. Supper will be served by the local church to all out-of-town guests, many of whom will remain over for the closing sermon.

Many Visitors at Christian Revival Kiddies at Banquet

About thirty Rock Falls people came down last evening, led by their pastor, Harry E. Sniffer, to attend the Peters-Sniff revival at the Christian church. One of their choir, Mr. D. Wright, sang a very pleasing bass solo, "I Want to See Jesus." And another glad surprise for Prof. Sniff and the large audience was the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Bird, singing evangelists of Potomac, Okla., who were en route from Cowden, Ill., where they had just closed a successful revival, to Marion, Iowa, where one opens tomorrow evening. Mr. Bird has a very delightful Southern tenor, and his rendition of "Some Other Day" was a most effective sermon of itself.
In the afternoon ninety-eight of the "Do Rights" were entertained with refreshments in the church basement, after the regular class session. Mr. Sniff is much pleased by the interest and progress shown by the children. They will attend the Saturday evening service in a body, and at the close the rewards of excellence will be presented. This will be Young People's night, and the sermon by Dr. Peters will be "How a Young Man Resists Temptation."
Last night there were five additional, following a beautiful and tender sermon on the text of hope: "Weeping may tarry for the night, but joy cometh with the morning." (Ps. 30:5). The gist of the message was: All will be well for those who obey and serve God. It was a blessed encouragement for those of heavy hearts, who, as the evangelist put it, may be wishing and praying: "Oh, for a field boundless and a mind untrammelled, oh, for a higher, nobler, and purer life!" Plans for a concert at the close of the revival have had to be canceled since Mr. Seniff goes out on Monday evening, Ill., and the pastor there in special evangelistic meetings. However, both he and Dr. Peters will be here on Monday evening for the reception given by the church to the new converts.
Baptismal service will precede the sermon this evening. Next Sunday afternoon a great mass meeting will be held in the church, with attendants from nearby Christian churches of Bureau, Ogle, and Whiteside Counties. Supper will be served by the local church to all out-of-town guests, many of whom will remain over for the closing sermon.

energy and ordinary electric current is similar to that between a pound of dynamite and a pint of gasoline. The pint of gasoline contains more energy and can do more work, but it gives off its energy slowly while the dynamite gives off its energy explosively all at once at an enormous rate of power.
Was a Socialist
Dr. Steinmetz took a keen personal interest in socialism and in the work abroad of socialist economics. Last year he was a candidate on the socialist party ticket for the office of state engineer and surveyor, and although defeated, ran well ahead of the other candidates on his ticket. During the election campaign the socialist party announced he had worked out a plan for a gigantic electrical system which would provide heat, light and power for the state.
In April 1922 Dr. Steinmetz made public a letter to Lenin, chief of state of Soviet Russia, offering his services for technical advice to that country. In January of this year he accepted a post as member of the advisory committee of Kuzbas colony in Siberia.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS— Fingerprints

To remove the fingerprints that accumulate on the doorway, use a clean cloth dipped in kerosene, then wipe with a cloth wrung out of hot water.

Glossy Fern

Wet the earth around ferns every three or four weeks with water to which a little ammonia has been added. This will keep them glossy and green. A teaspoonful to a quart is enough.

Flowers Revived

An aspirin tablet added to the water in which cut flowers are kept will revive them if they have begun to wilt.

Drying Stockings

When hanging clothes to dry, hang stockings by the toes and they will not get out of shape.

Kid Kept Soft

To keep kid gloves soft, put them into a tin box with a lump of ammonia wrapped tightly in a flannel.

Stains on Silver

A dry cork will remove stains from plate or silverware without scratching the metal.

Indelible Ink

When indelible ink stains resist every other treatment they often succumb to a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and ammonia.

TO ENTERTAIN PHIDIAN ART CLUB

October 27th is to Be Bird Day

October 27th has been designated by our Governor, to be observed as bird day. It has been ordered so for the following reasons:
The birds constitute a part of the natural wealth of our land. They minister to, and delight the senses. Our birds, subsisting largely upon insect pests, protect the growing trees and crops, and thus add materially to the wealth of the state, besides contributing to our pleasure by their bright plumage and sweet songs. It is quite essential that our youth from time to time be impressed with the necessity of propagating and fostering them.
The following verses were written by Mrs. Merion Maben:

When in the morn the Bluebird's song
Calls to his mate to go along,
Back to the South from whence they came,
It stirs in my heart the old love
strain.

Mid brush and bough hung with faded
leaves,
Swaying with the cooling breeze,
A robin and a bluebird gay,
Linger to warble their roundelay.

Cheerily on the Autumn morn,
My soul is thrilled by birds of song,
And soaring over field and plain,
The hawk surveys his vast domain.

G. A. R. Circle Pre- sented Flag to Church

Ladies Circle of the G. A. R. of this pastor with highest appreciation.

The president of the Circle, Mrs.
Peterson, introduced Mrs. Florence Whitish, the patriotic instructor of the Circle, who presented the flag in an appropriate speech to the pastor of the church, Rev. Hawkins, who accepted the flag gratefully, in behalf of his congregation.

Remarks were made by Mrs. Peterson, president; Mrs. Emma Peters, past president of the Circle, and by Mrs. Cupp, Past Dept. President, and by Mrs. Schweinsberg, also.

followed by special mention, entitled,
"Be a Hero."

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY ONIONS

Are you versed in the gentle art of cooking onions? Or do you regard them as the last vegetable to be considered when planning a meal?

Onions properly cooked are a truly delicious vegetable worthy of a place
at the most perfectly appointed table.
They are the proper accompaniment to poultry and game, but can be served with beef, steak or roast, mutton,
lamb or fish.

It's rather interesting to know that this homely onion so obnoxious to many persons was actually worshipped by the ancient Egyptians. Its layer on layer of rings were regarded as the symbol of eternity.

Our great-grandmothers had great faith in the healing properties of onions for colds. Onion sirup and onion plasters were considered efficacious remedies.

Today we find in onions a cheap
and wholesome food, stimulating appetites if used as a savory herb and supplying valuable mineral salts if used as vegetable.

If you have never tried French fried onions you do not know what a treat you have missed in the onion form.

FRENCH FRIED ONIONS

Large onions are preferable for this dish. Peel onions under water.
Cut in thin slices about three-eighths inch thick. Separate rings and drop in milk. Let stand about an hour.
Drain from milk and drop into flour seasoned with salt. Coat well with flour and drop into deep hot fat. Fry a golden brown and drain on heavy brown paper.

ONION SOUP

One and one-half cups thinly sliced
onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 4 tablespoons finely chopped carrot, 2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves, 1-3 cup butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 cups water, 3 cups rich milk, 1 egg yolk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, paprika.

Melt butter, add vegetables and cook, stirring to prevent them from changing color, for 15 minutes. Add water and simmer half an hour. Run through a fine strainer. Return to stew pan with milk. Add flour rubbed smooth with one tablespoon butter and bring to the boiling point.
Stir in yolk of egg slightly beaten
with salt and pepper and cook, stirring vigorously for two minutes.

And the simplest way to cook onions is best of all. Perhaps the old Egyptians cooked theirs this way on heated stones.

BAKED ONIONS

Rub onions clean with a dry soft cloth. Do not peel or cut in any way. Put in a shallow pan kept for the purpose and bake an hour in a moderate oven. Serve in the husks with plenty of butter, salt and pepper.

Or the husks are removed in the kitchen, the onions placed in a serving dish and seasoned before sending to the table.

Scalloped onions and tomatoes
make an appetizing mixture very much worth while.

SCALLOPED ONIONS

Two cups fresh small onions, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 cups canned tomatoes and juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt,
1 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Peel onions and slice about one-half inch thick. Fry in butter until straw color. Season with salt, sugar and pepper and add tomatoes. Turn into a well buttered baking dish,
cover and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove cover, sprinkle with grated cheese and return to a hot oven to brown and melt the cheese.

Two tablespoons grated cheese is sometimes added to onion soup. Stir in just before the egg yolk is added.

STUFFED ONIONS

Peel onions. Cook in boiling, slightly salted water for 30 minutes.
Drain and remove center sections.
Turn shells upside down to cool and
dry. Chop centers and mix with an equal amount of cooked rice or soft bread crumbs. Add two tablespoons grated cheese to one-half cup onion
and rice mixture. Moisten with milk.
Season with salt and pepper and fill onion shells with mixture. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until onions are soft.
This makes a very attractive dish
if baked and served in a shallow glass
baking dish or deep glass pie dish.

The onions can be baked and served individually in ramekins.

masquerade party, the high school
faculty and the entire high school.

The decorations are to be elaborate,
in orange and black and a round orange moon is to shine impartially on all. There will be dancing to the music of an excellent orchestra, or a range punch is to be served, and—well
in a few words as one senior told us
—it will be a "real party."

LOOKING AFTER THE IMMIGRANTS.

In an editorial by Editor Carl J. Bengtson
The Lutheran Companion, published by agustana Book Concern, there appears a suggestion that the Swedish churches in this country would do well to look particularly after the immigrants coming from Sweden,
over-coming their natural reserve, because they feel their language handicap. Just how best to overcome their language handicap has had long consideration by the Swedish churches. Is it better to welcome them conducting church services in their own language, or to insure their learning the English language the more quickly by having church services conducted in English?
Is the at-home feeling the immigrants have
in hearing services in their own language
sure to attract them, leaving their accruitment of English to their contacts outside of the church? Or must there prevail an old feeling, that prevailed when Swedish churches were organized in America in the latter days and when but few members understood English, that the language of the country should be used?

Now the churches are largely filled, not by immigrants, but by descendants, all of whom understand and use English as the language in which they are more familiar, and the thing appears to be growing among them
while the church should retain their individuality, the services might well be in the language of the country, immigrants to be welcomed just as cordially, they be aided in mastery of English by friendly
tacts in and out of the church.
The use of the mother tongue certainly was wise so long as the big majority of a church understand it more fully than they English. But this is true in so few instances now that the new generations have language question under discussion.

THAT FOUR HOUR DAY.

Mr. Edison, who never fails to say something interesting when the newspaper men
come to corner him, agrees with his fellow-inventor, Charles P. Steinmetz, that electricity very soon will reduce the working day
to four hours. But he asks this question:
Will it be a good thing for the nation?
Mr. Edison, whose own working day is over that of the average, believes in
it. Too much leisure for too many people lead to bad evils. He sees as well-conceived old line in the copy book about a cer-cloven-hoofed person finding mischief idle hands to do. It is the welfare of the which most concerns the wizard. The links have more appeal than the library laboratory.

electricity, which is making over our world, could make over human nature, if we
an electric code of morals which threatens to "third-rail" us when we side-stepped, might welcome the four-hour Utopia. But the skies were always sunny and food just e's hands man never got far out of the
th-cloud stage, never built anything that red, never left a line that is quoted. He not less savage than the beasts he
it. Clarence Darrow argues that such instance was idyllic, that our civilization
red mounting miseries. The four-hour
herefore might give us a chance to test arrow dictums. Almost we might wel-
it for hias sake.
rain tuned only to a four-hour schedule
be a scatter-brain the other twenty.

NEW YORK AS THE SILVER MARKET.

withstanding the fact that London has long maintained supremacy as a silver market, there are many reasons why New York should be the world's principal market,
according to Senator Oddie, who, as chairman of the senate commission of gold and silver inquiry, has been engaged in a study of the question. Senator Oddie urges that New York silver market be strengthened. He calls attention to the fact that approximately 85 percent of the world's silver output is produced in North, Central and South America, and that during the war New York became the chief silver market of the world, since which time it has occupied a very strong and independent market position.

According to Senator Oddie, China purchased in 1922 something like 50,000,000
ounces of silver in America compared with 22,000,000 ounces in London. India purchased 22,000,000 ounces in America compared with 46,000,000 ounces in London. Heavy purchases by China and India in New York
in 1923 indicate that the Indian "bazaars"
also realize the advantage of buying silver here rather than in London. The senator calls attention to the fact that the demand for silver in a country like China often rises
very quickly, which results in a high premium on the early arrival of the metal in China, and that as it takes less time to deliver silver from the United States to China than from London, there is a direct saving in interest on metal in transit; which means that China, therefore, will probably continue to transact an increasing amount of her silver business in New York. Through an organization the senator believes the silver producers should be able to effect improvements in the New York market, but making closer contracts with oriental buyers and in making available supplies of silver at all times, and that the maintenance of an open silver market in New York, where silver could always be bought or sold, would afford much needed
protection to American interests.

TOM SIMS SAYS:

Now that the world series is over footballers come to pass.

Football players are among the few who are cheered for kicking.

Zuppke of Illinois is a football coach even if he does sound like a foreigner asking for soup.

While Zuppke writes football plays he is not a playwright. He writes so they won't play wrong.

Best football players come from the broad
open spaces where men are men and women are girls.

While the football season ends on Thanksgiving this is not the original excuse for Thanksgiving.

Learning football is no easy matter. Arguing with traffic cops and ice men is fine training.

Excellent way to learn football is by kicking every lap-dog you see and then running.

Football players must be tough. They must be tough as cafe steaks. Eating cafe steaks will help them.

Never feed a football player on raw meat.
It is dangerous. He may bite off his girl's nose.

Looking for needles in haystacks will train
a football player's eyes to see the point.

Football is better than golf. Everybody knows where the ball is.

Best way to train a footballer is make him
fall in love. Then he will fight like a bed-bug.

What's a little rouge between a girl and her football hero? Nothing, if it is on her lips.

Footballers must know open-field running.
Dodging autos helps in this. Never stiff-arm
a limousine.

Everybody should know football. A good football player can tip a collector and step in his face.

Football enables one to kick a burglar in the eye and take his watches and pocketbooks.

Women should learn football. It would help in bargain counter rushes and opening tight windows.

Never play football with your mouth open. When you brush your teeth you may find an extra ear.

Teach the family football. No neighbor
would dare talk about a family of football players.

Buy the baby a football. Tell him football players don't cry. Saves you lots of singing.

This whole town needs football. If everybody could kick everybody they wouldn't have to do it.

If everybody in the United States learned to play football we could chase the book
agents ragged.

Away down near to the ground was a doorknob and Nick gave it a pull.

Pretty soon Nancy and Nick arrived in Dixie Land. They found themselves on an old plantation—right near a big buttonwood tree, just as the Fairy Queen had directed.

Half way up the buttonwood tree
was a little door and on the door was a card which said "Misses Possum Her House."

Away down near to the ground was a doorknob and Nick gave it a pull.
Instantly the door opened and a voice called down, "Who's there?"

"We are!" answered the Twins.

"We've come to call!"

"It's easier for me to come down
than it is for you to come up," called Misses Possum, "so just sit down till I gather up my family. I can't leave them alone very well. For Brother Coon's mighty fond of young possums and he lives over yonder in that tree."

Pretty soon she dropped right at their feet, but what was the Twins'
amazement to see a creature almost hidden from sight by a dozen little possums sitting up in a straight row
like majors, their funny tails curled tightly around hers to keep them
from falling off.

"Get off," children, and behave
your manna and make a how to

Misses Possum, giving her tall a sharp jerk which sent them all rolling.

"Oh, Mammy, Mammy," they all shrieked rushing at her again and piling on like passengers a top of a Fifth Avenue bus. "Don't put us off,
please."

"All right," sighed Misses Possum patiently. "Talk about people being tied to one's apron strings. It's far worse to have them tied to your tail.
But after all I don't blame them.
Old Reddy Fox is always snooping around, and likes possums better than Mistah Coon even. My! Everybody seems to like possums—even people it's dreadful to be so popular!"

"That's what we came to see about," said Nick. "We will help you any way we can."

"That is very kind of you," said Misses Possum gratefully. "But really I don't know of a thing you can do. Besides we have a pretty good time as a rule. You've no idea what good things there are to eat in Dixie Land! Did you evah taste
call them?"

"No, we never did," said Nancy and Nick.

"Then come and I'll show you,"
said Misses Possum brightly, and she trots away across the road.

The Mechanic Speaks

BY BERTON BRADLEY

Maybe I'm "gross, material and blind."

Maybe my soul's become "commercialized."

But I'll admit, somehow, I cannot find

What evil lurks in behind "standardized."

Standardized tools make work a simpler thing to me.

Standardized roads and railways give
it to man

Broader horizons, greater scope and being

New wonders for his seeking eyes to scan.

"Standardization" gives a million men
What once a thousand, at the most,
might own.

It multiplies again and yet again
Comforts that would be otherwise unknown.

It adds new speed to thought, new breadth to dreams.

Lights the load of weariness and
foils

Makes steel the beast of burden, and redeems

The plowman from his bondage to the soil.

It does not tie men to material things,
But makes them serve him in a better way.

Gives toilers leisure for the thoughts
of kings.

For looks and music, laughter, love
and play.

"Standardized thought?" Ah yes, I've heard the phrase.

It sounds like something ominous, in sooth.

Yet since the first beginning of his days

Man's thought has struggled for a standard—Truth!

ROAD BUILDING IS

Forty Thousand Miles a Year of Various Kinds of Roads.

Roadbuilding belongs close to the top in the list of big business in the United States. The latest estimate compiled by Thos. H. MacDonald, Chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads shows that during 1923
approximately 40,000 miles of surfaced
roads will be completed.

The 1922 construction program approximated 37,000 miles divided as follows: 6,000 miles of pavement such as brick, concrete, sheet asphalt and bituminous; 4,000 miles of macadam,
waterbound and bituminous;

20,000 miles of gravel and 7,000
miles of sand-clay and top-soil roads.
The classification of this year's 40,- 000 miles will be about the same.

At the beginning of this year, there were about 400,000 miles of improved surfaced roads in existence and at the present rate of progress, this mileage
will be doubled in ten years.

One of the most important factors in the great movement for more and better roads which has resulted in the construction of improved highways at the rate of 40,000 miles a year, is the American Road Builders' Association which was organized more

JUDGE SEARLE IN TALK ON ILLINOIS PAROLE PROBLEMS

Says This State Has Been Indeterminate Sentence Law.

Bloomington, Ill., October 25.—(By The Associated Press)—Not until public sentiment "shall have ceased to demand vengeance as an element of punitive justice," shall the state of Illinois have an ideal indeterminate sentence law, Sherman W. Searle, assistant director of the state department of Public Welfare, declared here this afternoon, in discussing accomplishments of the parole law, at the Illinois Conference on Public Welfare, in session here.

"However," Mr. Searle said, "this state comes nearer to having an ideal indeterminate sentence law than any other state of the Union, and its administration has produced more satisfactory results. But an ideal law would be one that provided neither a minimum of a maximum period of incarceration. The time may come when such a law may be passed, but it will not be until such time as public sentiment shall have ceased to demand vengeance."

Mr. Searle gave a brief description of the methods of administering the parole law and its aftercare. Concluding he said:

"The results have proven that the Illinois method is the best that has been devised. In no other state has there been such a showing made. During the past biennium, 82.9 per cent of those placed upon parole have made good. Only 17.2 per cent have failed. In the penal institutions of this state, but 11 per cent are repeat offenders—have ever served a previous term. Eighty-one per cent are first term inmates. Less than one-half of one percent of those on parole have been returned to the institutions under new sentences."

"Comparisons are inevitable. However, recent statistics from other states having congested centers similar to Illinois—in some instances more favorably situated—show from 25 to 35 percent failures. Residivism runs much higher, and this, in spite of the fact that a large percent of the offenders in Illinois come from other states attracted to this state because of its large cities."

"The efficient administration of the parole law has won the approval of the committing authorities in practically every county in the state. Not only has it won their approval, but they are giving splendid cooperation. This cooperation extends from the judges and the state's attorneys, to the sheriffs and police authorities of the larger cities. Each annual meeting of the state's attorneys association of Illinois since 1913 has passed resolutions of approval."

"This record could not have been made without the intelligent and indefatigable work of the parole agents. They are men of heart and brains. They are unflinching in their endeavors to protect and to guide and direct the parole. They have not permitted their sympathies to unbalance their judgment nor have they allowed themselves to become warped and 'hard-boiled.' They have shown a pride in placing this state in the front ranks. They have been loyal to the paroling authorities and devoted to Superintendent Will Colvin who not only planned the after-care, but has charge of its administration since its inception. To their work, and to the preparatory work of the division of prisons and criminology must be credited the splendid record of Illinois."

This Little World

NEW ORLEANS
BY MASON DIXON
NEA Service Writer

New Orleans—The Mas and Pas, the Grandmas and the Grandpas of New Orleans are getting tired of the dominance of the flapper and the debutante. So they plan to step out and save this winter and stage a carnival ball that will throw into the shade any Mardi Gras affair ever given in the Crescent City. They have organized "The Dukes of Alexis."

This organization will give a carnival ball at which the queen and all of her attendants will be matrons, age no limit, and the king and all of his court will be married men, age no limit. Of course the debs and flappers will stage their usual balls of Rex Comus, Proteus, Momus, the Kittens.

the Nine O'Clocks, the Mystic Crew, and the Dukes of Alexis, composed of the parties who supply the mazzetta for all the other balls, have announced:

"When we old folks stage our affair it will be the most brilliant spectacle and greatest social event New Orleans ever saw. The kids will have to take off their hats to us."

The Limping Lady limps no more in New Orleans drug stores. Beautiful, young, grinning with pain, she limped into one this week. "A corn plaster, quick, please—on please?"

The solicitous pharmacist, obliged, instantly.

"May I put it on here?" she supplicated, glancing in search of privacy.

"Certainly, madam." The pharmacist led the way to the prescription counter, only booth in the store. He departed discreetly. He hurried out in front where a male customer loudly demanded attention.

Later, he found that all the morphine and cocaine had vanished from his prescription case.

When detectives arrested Mrs. Emile Carpenter of Breckenridge, Tex., she was identified as the sore-footed young lady. Her husband was identified as the loudly demanding male customer. Four druggists they had victimized identified them.

Many's the time Mrs. F. Caffero of New Orleans, mother of six, wanted to go shopping, but had no place to park the kids.

Now she is making her living solving that problem for other mothers. In the heart of downtown is her new play room, large, airy, toy-equipped, with games for the larger kids. Mrs. Caffero and her daughter Inez run it. By scores daily shopping mothers park their children there.

New Orleans has its "love mediator" now—and she's very official. She has been appointed by Judge Nix of the Juvenile Court. She's young and charming and has a training as a social worker in that same court. All she has to do is to take an angry, sulky husband and an angry, sulky wife who are all ready to sue for divorce—and make 'em patch it up until smiles replace tears and "honey" replaces curses.

Her identity is being kept quite secret.

"Publicity is the last thing a love mediator needs," says Judge Nix.

At one of the New York railroad depots an agent for a northern industrial firm was rounding up a band of Dixie negroes for the train that was leaving for the north.

One husky, broad-shouldered colored citizen, leaning against a steel post in the depot concourse, watched the roundup. The whistle blew. The bell rang. The conductor shouted: "All aboard!"

The labor agent looked around. He saw the lone darky still leaning against the post.

"Here, boy!" he called. "How come yo' aint climbin' aboard?"

"Me?" said the darky, grinning. "Me? I aint gwine, boss. Me, Iee a B-class nigger!"

"What yo' means, B-class nigger, boy?" asked the labor agent.

"Me? I be's heah w'en dey goes away fat, and I be's heah w'en dey comes back hungry, boss!"

New Orleans at last has its jay-walking ordinance. The new law went into effect Monday. No more the leisurely sociable southern practice of ambling across the street any time any where, any angle.

On street corners where there is no traffic cop, the pedestrian has a right to hold up his hand, just like a traffic cop, and stop the traffic till he gets across. The courts will back him up in it, too.

Military Service Can't Make Lawyer Examiners Declare

Springfield, Oct. 26.—Military service in the World War cannot be taken as a qualification for admittance to the bar, in place of a high school education, Charles L. Bartlett, of Quincy, secretary of the Illinois Board of Law Examiners, has announced.

"The way is always open for an applicant to qualify himself and take the examinations if he desires to do so," Mr. Bartlett ruled in the case of Harrison Bruce, of Springfield, who desired to take the bar examination but lacks an equivalent of a four year high school course as required by the board. Bruce stated that "services in behalf of my country" prevented his finishing high school.

"Those who do not have a high school diploma have the privilege of making up their credits in whole or in part by special examination," Mr. Bartlett advised.

"These examinations are conducted under the auspices of the University of Illinois and a prospective applicant may take such examinations until he has acquired sufficient credits to be entitled to matriculation in the university. This matriculation certificate is accepted as proof of a preliminary education."

When informed that Bruce held a license to practice law in Tennessee, Mr. Bartlett said that "attorneys from foreign states are admitted to the bar of Illinois where the requirements for their admission in such state are equivalent to those of this state, or, in case the requirements there are inferior, after proof of five years' practice under that foreign license."

Additional requirements, however, have been set down by the Supreme court when it adopted Rule 39 requiring two years of college work as pre-legal education. Previous to this rule only a four year high school course has been required as pre-legal training.

"I do not assume to speak for the Board of Law Examiners, but assume to apply the rules concerning admission to the bar," said Mr. Bartlett. "Military service could not be considered as a qualification for a law license; any more than one would be entitled to practice medicine therefor."

TING BREEDING
OWS FOR BEST RESULTS—GREEN
al Expert Tells Chicken Raisers How to Make Money.

BY HORTON H. GREEN
is time to begin mating your ling hens and males for next year's progeny. Hens are much to be preferred to pullets as breeders, as they are frequently advised in these columns, and it will pay for the extra it takes to do so. Hens that good layers do not molt until Oc-ber or later and thus rest through the winter months previous to the laid period, enabling them to regenerate and restore exhausted energy and vitality ready to impart vigor and vital strength to their offspring. Vigor is the first essential every fowl from the day it is hatched until it goes to market, and it must begin with the hen before embryo is formed. We breed and train our pullets to lay at or six months of age before they begin laying until molting time the season and if they are hatched
in May we can get nearly or quite all 12 months' laying period from
it. This is as it should be and is ideal of be worked for and realized.
When you can do that with your chickens they will produce from 12 to 18
eggs each during what we call pullet year.
Pullets producing eggs at that rate
not impart the proper amount of vitality to the embryo chick to make it strong and vigorous fowl. Indeed,
such never get out of the shell.
Pullets are the ideal prospective hens as regards quality in the heny but their eggs should not be hatched until the second year. Eggs
the pullet year are also considerably smaller than those of the second third years and thus besides lacking vigor they also lack size and are to have size in the growing chick and in the mature fowl we must get with it in the shell. Small or oversized eggs must of necessity
produce small chicks while large eggs
as necessarily produce large chicks.
Hatch a small egg and a good sized together, under a hen or in the incubator, give them the same care
the one from the large egg will be much heavier when hatched, will grow faster and weigh increasingly all along, and will mature toward from two to four pounds more on poultry meat will sell for from one to three times as much as hogs
cattle meat sells for, five weight certainly pays to take note of these facts.
But I started to write about mating breeders. The year and a half old lets which we call hens now,
should be carefully culled, so as to
only the choice ones for next year's breeding. These should not be housed or confined but should run
large and should not be fed to impair laying but be allowed to run at large and be fed all the corn they eat just before going to roost.
Hens should be put with them about 2 male to 15 to 25 hens. This mating should be done early, especially before you get the males from away.
All males and females, among all of poultry have their sexual instincts and dislikes, the same as in all other birds and animals, human kind included, and it usually takes some time and some times two or three months for them to adjust themselves to each other. If you introduce a new into a flock it will be a "love
first sight" with many of the flock
and with many others it will be far different. Experienced poultrymen are frequently asked: "How many hens
y be given to one male?" We reply mated in yards, ten to twelve. If mated at large, 15 to 25. This is cause there is larger range for sex-congeniality those of either sex in favor in one case may readily find for and congeniality in another and is nearly 100 per cent of the eggs be fertile. This is why I prefer let all my breeders run at large and run together; this at least during breeding season.
The science of mating as to types
and general appearances cannot be taught, except by demonstration in real specimens. I may say, however, select males, early hatched
or old cockerels of good size, breed considered, of strong vigorous appearance and if with pronounced comb tendency, all the better. Avoid all

OUT OUR WAY

BY WILLIAMS

"SAPHEADS BEHIND
SAPPLINGS," PETERS
LABELS EXCUSERS

Lambasts Non-Christians
Who Excuse Their Absence.

Speaking on the subject, "Hiding
Among the Trees," Dr. H. H. Peters went after excuses of non-Christians with bare hands. The Bible record of how the first sinner, Adam and Eve, hid themselves from the presence of Jehovah, "among the trees,"
furnished the basis for his remarks.
This was joined with Jesus' Parable
of the Slighted Invitation, in the 14th
chapter of Luke.
"Many men dwell in a wilderness of excuses," he began. "They try to shield their small selves by trees of small dimensions—sapheads behind sapplings."
"Of course, every life has its testing time. We must be careful and charitable. The Bible gives many examples of men who met great trials;
some prevailed, because they resisted
so became world examples. Others, hiding behind the flimsy shelters of their excuses, stand out as failures
and warnings."
"There are trees of all kinds which men in the desperateness and sometimes their audacity, try to put between their disobedience and the commandments of God."
These excuses were then considered, one at a time. One person says he is too busy, and so never lets the church have a chance at his life; another is afraid he can't "hold out," and insists

on a guarantee that he is not given
in any other phase of his life; another points to the many hypocrites in the church, and this is a false and hypocritical excuse itself; another feels the church is after only his money, ignoring the fact that the church is the only organization among men that has no stated fees for membership.
Two "excuse-trees" were given particular attention by the evangelist.
"Some men claim they can direct their own lives without the interference of religion; that is, that they are absolutely independent morally and spiritually. Are they so educationally, socially, politically, domestically? Do they not depend on others for nearly every daily need, even to the food on their tables?
"And others claim to be confused
by the multitude of churches, differing and yet each insisting that its way is right. Sometimes, too, these denominations are contentious and prejudiced against one another, and give a poor exhibition of Christian harmony and fellowship.
"With any that may sincerely offer
this excuse, we have sympathy. Sectarian strife and selfishness have been and are a great stumbling block. But there are certain simple, fundamental facts and principles of the gospel,
which are generally accepted among all sorts of churches; and a man honestly seeking the way of God, with Bible in hand, ought to be able to find his way."
The Rev. W. C. Sell of the Dixon Brethren Church was present and assisted in the opening devotions. Preceding the sermon, Mrs. Walter Moore sang "In the Garden." Three joined at the close.
At Sterling yesterday afternoon,
Dr. Peters addressed a large group of workers from the Whiteside County churches. The invitation of the Dixon church to attend the mass-meeting
here next Sunday afternoon was cordially accepted by these congregations except the Erie church, which is also in revival meetings. A Whiteside Co.

Association of Christian churches was formed, with L. E. Cornett of Erie
president, H. E. Shiffer of Rock Falls, vice president, and L. M. Coffman of Sterling, secretary-treasurer.
Dr. Peters' sermon in the Dixon
Christian church tonight will be "Joy Cometh in the Morning."

WELFARE MEETING HEARS PLEA FOR HOME AND FAMILY

Illinois Conference Plans for Betterment in This State.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 25.—(By The Associated Press.)—A firm establishment of the home and family as the basis for all social endeavor, is the call to labor given all social workers, according to Mrs. E. M. Wagenseil, of Decatur, who delivered the opening address here tonight at the Illinois Conference on Public Welfare, at which she is president.

Reduction of politics in welfare work, was mentioned by Mrs. Wagenseil as next in importance.

"As social workers, keenly alive to our opportunities," she said, "I believe we have before us today, as our own peculiar work, the firm establishment of the home and family as the unit forming the basis of all social endeavor. This is true for the reason that as the home is so the individual, as the individual is so the community and as the community is so the nation. We have as our mission the effort to reduce politics in welfare work to a minimum and to shape our policies to the end that the youth of today may be taught the true meaning of the ethics of living."

"We must be fearless in our efforts to disseminate truth and in our efforts to lessen the reproduction of the unfit. It is our duty to know and courageously denounce the sources of unfitness. We must here to take an inventory of ourselves and of our work, a surveying of our own efforts to see if possible just where we stand."

"We realize that in no other line of work is the task so difficult as in the line of welfare work; the work of aiding and uplifting struggling humanity. We do not deal with figures, we do not deal with standards of supply and demand. We deal with human destinies, and generations may be required to figure our profits and losses. With all of that we must have an abiding faith that even through the weary years of toils, exhaust our energies and tax our brain to the utmost in the end it must count for the betterment of those with whom we are working and for whose future we keep pressing on when the outcome is obscure and the purpose seems all but lost."

"We must remember that we are second to the cause; that our work is so big and so much greater in importance than we as individuals, that we must sacrifice our personal feelings and check our personal ambitions, until we have asked ourselves this question: Is this really the best thing for the helpless child or the unfortunate man or woman; am I really giving my fellow worker credit for what she or he is trying to do or am I influenced by my own biased viewpoint?"

"As welfare workers we know what the words unfit and unfortunate mean to the human race and progress. Out of this intimate knowledge should come the foundations for world peace and all effort for the betterment of humanity. It may seem a far cry from this little gathering to the halls of peace but to my mind there is no reason why, in this meeting, in this little mid-western city of the corn belt, there should not be born the inspiration leading to the end that all wars shall cease and shuddering humanity shall thereby be comforted."

Forty-three disasters since the close of the war have called for American Red Cross relief.

freshness packed in air-tight Tin Containers To keep it fresh for you

THE moment you open a tin of Thomas J. Webb Coffee, you can sense its delicious freshness. Direct from the "live flame" roaster to you, no moisture has reached it. No hand has touched it. Not a bit of air has seeped through its container to rob you of its precious freshness.

You don't have to transfer this coffee into an air-tight jar for fresh keeping. Its original tin container with its friction top cover affords complete protection. Protects the coffee on its way to you—protects it while you use it. That's why you can use it little by little and find the very last particle in the tin just as fresh and fragrant and flavor-filled as the first.

Because of this protected freshness, a pound of Thomas J. Webb Coffee goes further than a pound of ordinary coffee. Gives you many more cups of good coffee to the pound—costs you less per cup than coffees that sell for less on the pound.

My Secrets Of beauty are yours now, if you wish By Edna Wallace Hopper

I made myself a famous beauty, and that beauty brought me glory. I have kept that beauty to a grand old age. After 50 years in the limelight, I still look a girl of 19.

These facts are due to helps I found through years of world-wide searching. They are, I believe, the best beauty helps in existence. No one I know has, in other ways, attained any like results.

So I have had these helps prepared and placed where all may get them. And I hope to see them bring to millions the benefits I got.

Just four will do.

These beauty helps comprise 32 different factors. But great experts have combined them in four preparations. And all are sold at modest prices which every girl and woman can afford.

One is my White Youth Clay. A clean, refined clay, vastly more efficient than ordinary clays. A clay perfected by French experts through 20 years of scientific study.

My White Youth Clay brings a new complexion, rosy, clear and clean. It combats all lines and wrinkles. No woman who once tries it will ever go without it. It costs 50 cents and $1.

Youthful bloom.

My Youth Cream is a cold cream like nothing else you know. It contains both lemon and strawberry. French experts have embodied in it the best skin helps they know.

Apply it after the clay. Also use it as a night cream, also daytime as a powder base. It's even on the skin to feed and whiten, firm, soften and protect. The price is 50 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser, now used by leading beauty experts the world over. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. And the dirt and refuse nothing else can reach comes with it. Great beauty experts charge $3 for it. Mine sells for 75 cents.

The hair you envy.

My glorious hair is due to my Hair Youth. It is heavy, silky, lustrous, and grows firm every year. Falling hair, dandruff and gray hairs are unknown to me.

My Hair Youth is applied with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It does not miss the hair. It keeps the scalp like a well-kept garden where the hair roots can flourish. It costs 50 cents and $1 with eye dropper.

All druggists and toilet counters supply these preparations, exactly as I use them. My Beauty book comes with each. They will bring you rich rewards. If you want more beauty, longer youth, these are the best ways science knows to get them. Edna Wallace Hopper, Business address, Waukegan, Ill.

Note—Mr. Hopper is now appearing twice daily in the Partridge Theatre of the Pacific coast and western states.—Adv.

LEGION TEAM IS FACING HARDEST GAME ON SUNDAY

Clinton Team Coming Here with Heavy String of Players.

The Dixon Legion football squad will face one of the strongest teams they have met this season at the Clinton team Sunday afternoon when the Clinton Legion with several hundred fans will invade the local field with the heaviest string of players seen in action here in three seasons. Manager Mark Burlingame prides himself on a line averaging 200 pounds to the man and his backfield is said to come up to 185 pounds each, which means a great deal more weight than the locals can muster.

However, Coach Dixon will not call for any reinforcements from out of town, but hopes to have all of his first string men in the game at the opening whistle. Risley, who has been in bed, may not be able to get out for the contest, but hopes to be able to play part of the game. Austin will be in shape to resume his position as well as Gardner. Currey will not be in the lineup at right end and Pete Miller will have a chance to work. Norm Barry will be here to assist in the backfield.

With word of a large attendance of Clinton fans at this game, Director Dudley Friedline has requested the members of the Legion band to be at the hall Sunday afternoon at 1:30 to go to the park and furnish music during the game. Beginning with the Clinton game Sunday, all games will be called at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30 as heretofore.

In keeping with a clause in the contract, the list of players who will be used in Sunday's game, with their weight and position has been exchanged by Managers Burlingame and Dixon. The letter from Clinton is interesting, giving the names of the players, the position he will play, his weight and the place where he acquired his football experience. The personnel of the visiting team is as follows:

Belding, end, 195 pounds, all western end, four years with University of Iowa.
Becker, end, 165 pounds, Wisconsin freshman.
Morrison, end, 160 pounds, Coe college.
Peterson, tackle, 220 pounds, Clinton high school.
Holder, tackle, 215 pounds, Clinton high school.
Robb, guard, 225 pounds, St. Ambrose college.
Walton, guard, 212 pounds, St. Ambrose college.
Flesell, center, 198 pounds, University of Iowa.
Knight, half back, 158 pounds, Illinois freshman.
Stokk, half back, 170 pounds, Illinois Varsity.
Betzinger, full back, 185 pounds, Cornell college.
Burlingame, quarter back, 170 pounds, Northwestern university.
Batchelor, half back, 165 pounds, Clinton high school.
Stearns, lineman, 200 pounds, Clinton high school.
Champlain, lineman, 165 pounds, Lake Forest academy.

Was a Good Judge of Liquor

"Since a young man I had a liking for liquor and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constant drinking gave me stomach trouble which became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my friend got me to try Mayr's good as new. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale at all druggists.—Adv.

"THE FOOL"

ILLUSTRATED BY
R.W. SAWYER
BEGIN HERE TODAY

Dilly Gilliam, her mother, Mrs. Gilliam of "William Groceries, Inc." with Mrs. Lella Thornbury, a divorcee, are trimming a Christmas tree on Christmas eve in the vestry of the Church of the Nativity, a fashionable church of New York. Mrs. J. Oron Tice, wealthy and a society leader, comes in with Jerry Goodkind, a man-about-town, who is interested in Clara Jewett, engaged to marry the assistant rector of the church, in bad favor because of his radical sermons.

Dr. Wadham, the rector, drops in to attend a meeting of the wardens. Mr. Barnaby is sexton of the church.

NOW GO ON WITH THIS STORY

"We didn't know you were back." Mrs. Tice returned the bow with awkward reverence.

"I didn't know you'd been away, doctor," Jerry said.

"Ten days," the rector explained, extending a pudgy hand, "attending the conference on the proper use of eucharistic candles. It's a subject on which I feel rather strongly." He turned to the bedecked tree upon which Mr. Barnaby was working diligently. "And what a beautiful tree! The star lights up, I suppose."

"We have hopes," said Dilly sleepily.

"Don't let me interrupt—I've only dropped in to keep an appointment with the wardens."

"We're all through," said Mrs. Gilliam, dusting her hands, "except for putting these gifts under the tree. Miss Jewett will be in in a minute with the rest. The star is real imitation diamonds. A gift from Mrs. Tice."

"Speaking of gifts, doctor," interrupted Mrs. Tice, advancing.

"Yes, dear lady," said the rector complacently.

"My husband wanted me to have a little talk with you about his check. You know, he promised $5000 to beautify the parlor of the parish house."

"Oh, yes," said Dr. Wadham, shifting his hand to his chin in a gesture that was a sub-conscious move of self-defense when he sensed trouble.

"And since then—well, frankly, doctor, John was very much upset about last Sunday's sermon. Mr. Gilchrist preached from the text about the rich man entering the kingdom of heaven."

"Always a trifle dangerous," agreed the rector.

"Yes, and last Sunday it seemed as if he were directing all his remarks at John. We're in the first pew, you know, and John says he doesn't like to complain, but there's getting to be altogether too much of this—bolshavism. John says the preachers are more, than half to blame for the present social unrest. I agree that some of the sermon was positively insulting."

"Mr. Gilchrist is young," the rector interposed.

"Gilchrist is a nut," Jerry snorted. "Of course, what John objected to was the reference to rents—to charging clerks and bookkeepers more than they could pay for 'wretched little flats' John says he doesn't come to be told how to run his business."

"Personally, I'm very fond of Mr. Gilchrist," Mrs. Gilliam declared. "His father had stock in our stores. But I don't think he's a good influence. This used to be a really exclusive church. Now, whenever Mr. Gilchrist preaches, there's such a crush of undesirable people in the galleries you can hardly get to your pews. We don't have that trouble with Dr. Wadham."

No one noticed Clara Jewett, who had entered and stood in the black shadows that made the choir-room door part of the wall.

"Mr. Gilchrist was such a promising young man," sighed Mrs. Tice. "So rich and happy."

"And in love," added Dilly. "He's still rich and in love and, I think, happy," Dr. Wadham affirmed.

today." That done, and done well, Mrs. Tice turned to go. An offer to drive them home took Mrs. Gilliam and Dilly with her. Mr. Barnaby still tinkered with the Star of Bethlehem.

"I think the trouble's outside," he decided as though he were to blame, and hurried along to help the three into Mrs. Tice's car.

Clara looked as though she wished Jerry had gone, too.

"It's funny to find you in church," she countered, trying to be at ease. "I want to talk to you," he said seriously.

"That's just it, Jerry," she objected. "You always want to talk to me, and always to say something I don't want to hear."

"Why not?"

"I'm in love with someone else." She said it simply, but not surely. He quickly sensed the tone.

"You're not going to marry Dan Gilchrist," he declared in his unpleasantly emphatic way. "What's the use of bluffing. We've known each other since we were kids. You know I'm not going to give up anything I want because it belongs to somebody else. And I know you're not going to give up what you want—comfort and luxury—for a crazy man who wears his collar hindside before."

"Jerry!"

"Now that's admitted, let's go on." "Mr. Gilchrist isn't exactly poverty-stricken."

"No, he got quite a lot of money from his father. You like him and when you said 'yes' you thought you were getting someone you liked, and all the rest of it, too. But something's gone wrong with Gilchrist, and you know it."

"Why do you say that?" she asked quickly.

"Because, if you didn't before, you heard it this afternoon. I saw you standing in the door. And I'm going to tell you a few things more." He was cold now and harsh.

"I don't want to listen," she remonstrated, turning away.

"Maybe—but you will. Do you know that your young trouble-hunter has given away nearly one-tenth of his capital in three months?"

"All right, ask my father. The old man has his money in trust. Gilchrist won't touch his income from William Groceries because he says they're profeering, and he's preaching such anarchy that both wardens are coming this afternoon to complain to Dr. Wadham. I don't want you to throw yourself away on a raving bug."

"And your advice is—"

"Marry me. I'm a nice fellow, too. I can give you what you really care about. You're over your ears in debt without any chance of paying up—or cutting down. And you're—"

He paused and surveyed her a moment—"shall we say, twenty-nine in October? I know what it cost you when your father died, and you had to come down a peg. You don't want to keep on coming down, do you?" This last deliberately and pointedly.

"And so—you advise me to marry you?"

"Yes."

She looked at him squarely and significantly.

"Knowing all I do about you?"

"I don't see how that concerns you," he answered brazenly.

"It proves you don't love me," she said.

"I want you, and I'm offering marriage to you," he pointed out.

"You haven't said one word of love."

"I've said 'What's the use bluffing.' I'm no movie hero—and no crazy dreamer. I'm a little shopworn, perhaps—maybe a little soiled—but I'm sane and I'm solvent. You're good-looking and smart, and a lady. You'll help my standing and I'll help your credit. For the rest—we needn't bother each other too much. What do you say?"

She turned on him.

"I think it's—revoltingly sordid!" Jerry smiled his cold smile.

"All right," he retorted. He looked at his watch, gathered up his cane and hat, and moved toward the door.
